User Testing

Although not required, testing the designs with real users will greatly improve the quality of the finished design and help catch usability issues before time is spent building out the designs. User testing involves our usability professionals recruiting up to 5 users and asking them to perform tasks. We record the results of the test and then deliver the video to you along with a list of usability issues or comments that our design team can implement. It's like the digital version of the old adage "Measure twice, cut once."
